BRYAN GAVE BRILLIANT ADDRESS AT STERLING

Will Open Rock River Assembly
Saturday, July 29, With "Value of an Ideal."

THOUSANDS GREETED SPEAKER

Large Number of Dixon People Attended Opening Day at Sterling.

Thousands of people, many of them
from Dixon, greeted William Jennings Bryan, speaker at the opening of the Sterling Chautauqua Friday afternoon.

Mineral Springs park had the appearance of a white city yesterday
with eighty-one tents all occupied.
Each of these numerous tents occupied by a family and besides all these people there are a number more at the cottages and at the floral hall, beside all who are boarding at the hotel. It is not known what the population of the park is but a census will be taken in a day or two, or as soon as the campers are all there and well settled.

At 9 o'clock yesterday morning the first public entertainment of the series
was given when the Sterling Union band gave a concert on the streets.
The music was kept up nearly all morning and the streets were thronged.
Many went out to the springs during the morning, and by noon there were fully 3000 people on the grounds.
The street car service was increased to the limit and all the cars were crowded.

In the afternoon the Sterling band gave a concert on the grounds and at 2 o'clock the big crowd was called to order in the auditorium tent. At 2:30 Hon. William Jennings Bryan, the silver-tongued orator, took the platform to deliver his famous lecture on "The Value of an Ideal," with which lecture he will open the Rock River Assembly at Dixon on July 29.
For an hour and a half the large audience was held to the closest attention
by this gifted speaker, although the heat in the tent was almost unbearable.
Mr. Bryan spoke under difficulties, the acoustics of the place being very poor while the oppressive atmosphere was enervating. But his hearers in their discomfort were amply repaid in the brilliant and eloquent discourse to which they listened.

A band concert followed the lecture.
Last evening's entertainment included a concert by the Carolinians and a lecture by James Speed upon "Redhead," the story of a woodpecker.

BILLY SUNDAY.

Many Dixon people will go to Sterling tomorrow afternoon to hear Billy Sunday talk on "Base Ball."

JOLIET CHAUTAUQUA

The annual Joliet chautauqua assembly opened Friday at Rock Run park and will continue until Sunday, July 23, inclusive. A programme of exceptional merit has been arranged.
The grounds, located six miles south
of Joliet, and reached by boat or rail, are in fine condition, and the number of campers will be large.

No Services for Month.

Rev. J. G. Brooks will preach tomorrow at the West Side Congregational church upon "Beauty for Ashes." In the evening Miss Mary Huggins will lead the Christian Endeavor meeting at 7 p. m. This will probably be the last service presided over by Rev. Brooks before he leaves upon his vacation, and the church
may be closed for a month.

Hewett at Grand Detour.

Dr. A. M. Hewett of Chicago and
D. N. Graham and wife of Hiawatha, Kans., were taken to Grand Detour
by George Bishop, where the party will enjoy an outing in Dr. Hewett's cottage.

At Thompson's Cottage.

Smith Ayers and wife and Ed. Valle and Miss Cecil Melvin will go tomorrow for a week's outing at Thompson's cottage. Rodney Ayres will spend Sunday with the party.

Board of Local Improvements.

The board of local improvements
met this afternoon at the city council rooms.

—Ezra Miller went to Sterling Friday.

—Harry Raffensberger has returned to Milledgeville after a visit here with his parents.

ANOTHER MUTINY ON BLACK SEA BATTLESHIP

ENJOYED CLUB PARTY.

Luncheon Club Will Supper at Grand Detour This Evening.

Friday evening about eighty people attended the party given by the Dixon Club. The first boat that went up took about twenty-five members of the club. The remainder of the party went up to Arion park on the boat that left the city at 6:15. The supper was given at Arion park where a dance was held after supper in the pavilion. The club and its friends returned about eleven o'clock after a very enjoyable evening. The Dixon Mandolin Club furnished the music for the dance program.

TAKE LAUNCH RIDE.

This afternoon the eight ladies composing the Economy Luncheon
club took a trip up the river in Mr.
Coe's launch, starting at two o'clock.
They will return in the late evening.
They will take supper at the Sheffield House in Grand Detour.

FARMERS GOT $30,000

But the Borden Condensed Milk Co.
Will Pay Out More Than This Next Month.

OATS CROP NOW COMING ON

Bye Will Give Large Yield and Corn
Is Growing Rapidly.

Today the Borden Condensed Milk company paid off the farmers for the month of June. The company paid out today between $37000 and $38000, but the amount paid the 15th of next will be considerable more. As a rule June is about the poorest milk month for the farmers. Dixon was full of farmers today, but on account of the hay and oats harvest they did not remain long in town.

OATS COMING ON.

The farmers are having hard luck getting their hay away. There was too much rain this week. Some of them will have to leave the hay making rest for several days and go to the oats. Many of the farmers find it necessary to commence cutting oats
the first of next week. The oat crop is very good this year, but a number of pieces are down pretty badly. The rye is being harvested rapidly, and it is a good crop.

Corn around Dixon looks fine.
These hot days are just right for corn
and will make a big crop.

TODAY IS THE LIMIT

Fire Insurance Men Must Pay to City Clerk Bardwell Two Per Cent of Gross Earnings.

AMOUNT LAST YEAR WAS $520

Tax Is Levied on Foreign Companies
for Benefit of Fire Department.

Today, July 15, is the limit for the fire insurance men of the city to pay up their annual two per cent tax on all their gross earnings for the year.
Last year this tax amounted to $520.00. So far there are about five agents that have not paid their tax to City Clerk H. U. Bardwell. Accordingly the amount all ready turned in falls far short of that required. The law regarding the payment of this tax is very strict, and the penalty for failure of payment is as follows:

"If such account be not rendered on or before the day (July 15) herein designated for that purpose, or if the said rates shall remain unpaid after that day it shall be unlawful for any corporation, company, or association to transact any business in insurance in any such city, town or village until the said request shall have been fully complied with." Accordingly, any agent failing to pay his tax can be restrained from doing business. This tax is not levied upon any insurance company incorporated under the statutes of the State of Illinois. The money obtained from this assessment of fire insurance companies goes toward the maintenance, use and benefit of the fire department.

crew of the Russian battleship Catherine of the Black sea squadron. The mutineers are reported to have sunk
the vessel.

Killed in Collision.

Special to THE TELEGRAPH:

Mount Vernon, Ind., July 15.—In a head-on collision between two freight trains on the Louisville & Nashville railroad near Upton four persons were killed and eight were injured. The dead are Leonard Price, Nicholasville, Ky.; John Spradly, Evansville; unknown tramp supposed to have lived at Nicholasville, Ky., and L. G.
Coker, brakeman, McLeansboro, Ills.

PROSPECT PARK SOLD

Jas. N. Sterling, for Dr. L. E. Hughes
Disposed of It to Messrs. Gilmore and Hauater.

THE SALE WAS MADE TODAY

Tract Comprises Nine Lots Beautifully Located Near Milk Factory.

James Sterling today sold for Dr. L.
E. Hughes to Charles Gilmore and Albert Hauater Prospect Park, consisting of nine lots. This park is located on the hill north of the milk factory and was formerly a part of the Loveland farm.
Years ago George H. Page bought the land from Mr. Loveland. Mr. Page's heirs sold the land to Dr. Hughes four or five years ago when it was platted but was not put on record
until very recently.

Messrs. Gilmore and Hauater are Dixon gentlemen and both are employed at the milk factory.

MRS. J. W. HANNA DEAD.

Expired This Afternoon Aged 66-- Leaves Five Children.

Mrs. John W. Hanna died this afternoon at one o'clock at her home on East Fifth street aged sixty-six years. She was born on Sept. 2, 1838, in Monroe county, Penn., and came to Illinois in 1855. She leaves five children, George, Jonas, Mrs. Charles Wilhelm and Miss Rebecca Hanna, all of Dixon, and Mrs. Patrick Coffey of Dubuque, Iowa.

The funeral will be held Monday at 2:30 p. m. from the late home at 332
East Fifth street, interment being at Oakwood cemetery.

QUITS SALOON BUSINESS.

Michael O'Neal Returns to His Work

as Illinois Central Car Repairer Michael O'Neal has gone out of the saloon business and has gone back with the Illinois Central as car repairer. About a month ago Mr.
O'Neal resigned his position with the railroad and bought an interest in the Bank saloon on Hennepin avenue. He concluded he did not like the business,
and turned the full management over to his partner, Thomas O'Neal, who will continue the business, Mr. O'Neal still retaining his half interest in the business.

Annual Picnic Is Popular.

The Men's club of the Methodist church will hold its second annual picnic Monday. So far about sixty men have signified their intention to attend the "men's only" outing. The boat will leave for the first trip at 2 o'clock, and the second boat will go about 6 o'clock.

Will Exhibit in Dixon July 28 Coming From Bloomington, Ill., Maj. Lillie's Old Home.

TWO SECTIONS IN NOVEL PARADE

"Bigger and Better Than Ever" is No Trite Saying.

Pawnee Bill, otherwise Major Gordon W. Lillie, comes to Dixon July 28 with his Historic Wild West and Far East exhibition from Bloomington. This city is the place of the celebrated scout's nativity and it will be probably with a feeling of great pride that the Major will exhibit in the town he left so many years ago. This vast and novel exhibition is the one outdoor entertainment that is absolutely free from every objectionable feature and may be seen with profit by young and old alike. It is an honest genuine exhibition of real historical interest, of lasting educational value and, as a diversion, the most exciting yet presented to the public of America.

The time-worn phrase "bigger and better than ever" has done yeoman service for tented exhibitions since the days of the pioneer showman, until such a statement advanced by the department of publicity attached to a traveling entertainment is more often looked upon by the intelligent reader as the "same old hoax." Where the expression is used with a due regard for the truth, however, a truth which can be readily substantiated and the public accept it as an honest statement of fact, it becomes a telling advertisement, despite its hoary antiquity and perverted application in many instances.

As applied to Pawnee Bill's Wild West and Far East Exhibition it is at once truthful and descriptive. From an original investment of less than $1000, some twenty years ago, Pawnee Bill's Wild West has weathered many adverse storms and today represents an amusement enterprise worth in equipment and trade-mark probably a quarter of a million dollars. Indomitable energy, pluck and a modicum of good fortune have been the dominant factors in the upbuilding of the entertainment which bears his name. For this exhibition this season money, and lots of it, has been expended with a lavish hand, with the result that the performances given this season make its predecessors pale by comparison. It stands today a large, splendidly equipped organization, employing over 500 people and some 425 head of stock. New features have been added until in addition to what might be called the purely "Wild West" attractions, Maj. Lillie presents its antithesis in his Far East entertainment, in which Japanese and

Chinese cavalry will ride side by side with Indians, cowboys and Mexicans from the Western Hemisphere. Nor is this all, for he has imported a group of genuine Singalese, who will be seen in sports and pastimes peculiar to themselves.

The free street offering to be given upon the morning of the arrival will present two distinct cavalcades, one representing the "Wild West," while the other will comprise the representatives of the Far East.

Three bands and a fife and drum corps, together with a magnificent portable orchestra, furnish string music for the long line of horsemen headed by Maj. Lillie. "Pawnee Bill." All in all it will prove a fitting prelude to the splendid performance presented this season.

THE WM. P. HALL CIRCUS JULY 17

Come to Dixon from Morrison Sunday Morning for a Two Days Stay.

WILL SHOW TWICE MONDAY

Big Parade Will Start at 10 a. m. Traversing Principal Streets.

The W. P. Hall Circus will arrive from Morrison tomorrow morning for a two days stay in Dixon, showing on Monday afternoon and evening. Barring accidents the big parade will start from the show lot at 10 a. m. Monday, traversing the principal streets of the city.

The press from other cities have only the most favorable comment for Hall's Parade. Even when the show visits territory where it has never been, its magnificent street pageant so agreeably surprises the public that they are sure to crowd the immense tents. It is in the parade that the management of a circus can show to good advantage the stability and character of the congregation. If it is a cheap concern, giving only ordinary performances, its parade will tell the tale. If it is really a meritorious concern the street parade will demonstrate the fact.

The shows will exhibit under the ten acres of rain-proof tents, so that the public is assured of immunity from any unpleasantness in the shape of rainstorm. The management of the W. P. Hall circus claims that it is widely different from other shows and, judging from the great variety of features and attractions advertised, it will have no trouble to convince its patrons that it is very different from other tent shows. After due reflection, the oft-repeated sentiment, "When you have seen one circus you have seen them all," appears very absurd. One might as well say, "When you have read one magazine you have read them all," or "When you have heard one lecture you have heard them all," or "When you have seen one play you have seen them all," or when you have heard one band you have heard them all, as to say, "When you have seen one circus you have seen them all." A visit to the W. P. Hall Show will convince the most skeptical that such sentimental talk is foolish, without foundation, and upon investigation it resolves itself into exaggerated absurdity. The Great W. P. Hall Show has horses, and so have other shows but the Great W. P. Hall Shows have the best horses in the land. Other shows have bands, acrobatic performers, riders, etc., but they are very different from those with the W. P. Hall Show. It pays higher salaries, and not only secures superior performers mentioned above, but it has many novel, new and mysterious acts that cannot be imitated by other people successfully. Most of the names and acts advertised by the W. P. Hall Shows are to be seen only with that show.

Those people in this community who have not visited a circus during recent years because they supposed they were all alike will do well to visit the W. P. Hall Show and they will be agreeably and pleasantly disappointed and they will be forced to admit that the Great W. P. Hall Shows are similar to others in but very few minor points, and that, as a whole in quality, quantity and character it is far different from other tented concerns.

PATTERSON-BRAINERD CARNIVAL CO.

Will Arrive in Dixon Tomorrow for a Week's Stay at Athletic Park on First Street.

A FINE LIST OF ATTRACTIONS

Shows Are Moral and the Management is Courteous and Obliging.

The Patterson-Brainerd Carnival company will arrive from Rock Falls tomorrow and will open up to the public Monday at Athletic Park, on College Avenue near First Street. Dixon people who have seen the shows in Rock Falls praise them and say that the company has a fine list of attractions. Their goods are transported on fifteen cars of their own and they carry over one hundred people in the various departments.

A week ago they showed at Canton, Ill., and upon leaving that city were presented with the following letter of recommendation:

"To whom it may concern: The Patterson & Brainerd Carnival company has just finished an engagement in Canton. As members of the committee under whose auspices the company has appeared here we hasten to give an unsolicited and unqualified endorsement of this company. We have found them courteous in their business methods, and willing and able to fill to the letter their promise to give a clean and entertaining carnival." This communication was signed by six members of a committee of the commercial club.

Nurse Campers.

The nurses, who have been sojourning in the woods near Grand Detour, at the Thompson cottage—named for the nonce "Laughalot"—will break camp this evening. Today they remove the signs from the trees on the road leading to camp; legends that warned visitors to "keep off the grass," "beware of the dog," "look out for snakes," "bring your bite remedy with you," "it is not an emergency hospital," "no doctors allowed," etc., etc. At 10 o'clock this morning a man was burned in effigy. The rag man—scarecrow—or scaretrap, that stood guard with its limp coat sleeve wrapped about a shotgun was formally cremated; the ceremony being performed with wild hilarity.

The man image was not looking very nice, and, therefore, it was resolved in camp that too much trouble was caused in this world by men "not looking well," and all such patients should be cremated, and thus save trouble.

At the next meeting of the national hospital matron committees such treatment will be recommended for all male patients.

Painting Episcopal Church Steeple.

Lemuel Rollins today began painting the steeple of St. Luke's Episcopal church which edifice is now undergoing repairs. This seemingly perilous undertaking has no terrors for Lem who has undertaken the task before. Many passersby have stopped to watch him as he swung at the end of a frail looking rope but none have seemed to envy him his rise in the world.

Company and Regiment Unknown.

Last year there were two soldiers of the civil war buried in Oakwood cemetery by the name of George W. Saylor and George Marsh. Their company and regiment are not known keeper of the Grand Army memorial list, L. W. Mitchell. Accordingly, the list is incomplete; and it is desired that the information may be obtained from those that know.

Silk Thieves in Chicago.

The police authorities in Chicago believe that the many silk burglaries in Northern Illinois and points in Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin are all committed by a band of thieves with headquarters in Chicago. Their plunder so far is estimated at $25,000 in value and is disposed of through some unknown agent in the city.

Pickpockets Caught in the Act.

J. P. Conroy, a Chicago pickpocket, was caught in the very act of taking things from a man's pocket at Harlem Park, Rockford and was locked in jail. His partner, escaped as he was too far away for the officer to grab and no other policeman was near enough to notify until too late, but was later arrested at Belvidere.

Heat Affects Seventh's Soldiers.

Eighteen members of the Seventh regiment were prostrated by heat at Camp Lincoln yesterday and were carried off the field to the regimental hospital. None were seriously affected, but Col. Moriarty called off the battle exercises which were to have been held in the afternoon.

OCTETTE MAKES HIT AT FAIR

Miss Josephine Morse Takes Part in Brilliant Lake Geneva Function.

The brilliant county fair which was held at Lake Geneva yesterday and today is of considerable local interest, as one of Dixon's popular young ladies, Miss Josephine Morse, was among those that took part in one of the entertainments. The fair is held on the grounds of the old Leiter estate, half a mile from the village of Lake Geneva. Fifty tents and pavilions are grouped on one side of the country house which has been closed so many years; on the other side are the horse show and athletic grounds. Yesterday eighty little boys from the slum quarters of Chicago were the guests of honor at the fair; and the managers of the different attractions tried to give the youngsters the best time possible.

One feature of the entertainment was the vaudeville show managed by Mrs. George T. Odell. The tented inclosure before the open air stage was too small to accommodate the crowds attracted by the gorgeous show bills and the seductive promises of the barker. One of the greatest hits of the program was the singing and dancing of Mrs. Blanche Randolph Skinkle and an octette of girls in tissue paper costumes. The octette was composed of Miss Josephine Morse of Dixon, Miss Florence and Louise Pettibone, Miss Mary Cornell Miss Elsie M. Heath, Miss Margaretta Woodbury, Miss Charlotte Pettibone and Mrs. Skinkle. Miss Morse has been at Lake Geneva since July 3 attending a house party which was given by Miss Louise Woodbury. Miss Morse, Miss Woodbury and the Misses Pettibone have all been attending the Rockford Woman's College during the last year. A large out of the octette, in which these young ladies are seen in tissue paper costumes is found this morning in the Chicago Tribune. Miss Morse is expected home the early part of next week.

COMING AMUSEMENTS

Large Numbers of People Will Be Attracted to Dixon.

During next week and the week following large numbers of people will be attracted to Dixon by the several amusement features. The W. P. Hall circus shows here Monday and the Patterson-Brainerd carnival company shows all next week at Athletic Park, while Pawnee Bill occupies the main position in the limelight on July 28. Never has Dixon and the surrounding country been billed with advertising as at present, the three rival attractions putting out large quantities of "paper," and it is safe to say that there is no available spot which does not contain a glaring poster of one of these companies.

On page 3 of this issue the readers of the TELEGRAPH will find announcements of all the attractions spoken of, the entire page having been given up to this feature.

SIX HEATS FOR ONE RACE

Collision Occurred at Mendota Races on Friday Afternoon.

The free-for-all race which was advertised for Thursday afternoon at Mendota, Ill., was carried out yesterday. Accordingly, the meet will not close until today. It took six heats to decide the free-for-all yesterday on account of a collision in the fourth heat. Baby Kid, belonging to R. L. Parker of Cedar Rapids, Ia., and Hazel Patch, owned by J. W. Flack of Milwaukee, Wis., collided, giving the fourth heat to Personette. The race was finally won by Baby Kid, best time being 2:13. The purse for this race was $500. Rosa B took first place in the 2:25 pace, best time 2:15. The 2:29 trot was won by Grace A, her best time was 2:25. The purses for the last two races were $400 each. The meet will close this afternoon.

"KNOWED IT ALL DE TIME."

Pat Fesler of Rochelle Tells One on Col. F. O. Lowden.

Col. F. O. Lowden has a very retentive memory and can "call the turn" on any of his myriads of friends and acquaintances, calling each by name. Once in a great while, however, he has an off day. Monday J. C. Fesler, alias "Pat," of Rochelle, with his brother, John H. Fesler, recently returned from six years' service as consul at Amoy, China, made their way to the Auditorium annex in Chicago.

There they met Col. Lowden, who, with a company of friends was enjoying the hospitality of that hostelry. Seeing "Pat," the genial Colonel greeted Mr. Fesler with his familiar "How do you do," in much the same manner as "Teddy" says "De-light-ed!"

The Colonel wanted his friends present to meet, "My friend from Ogle," and recalled the fact that he (the Colonel) had once been a candidate for the office of Governor, and how "his friend" had accompanied him all over Ogle county, to Kings and Oregon and Davis Junction and Byron, Stillman Valley, and how he had helped roll up a majority which made the Dickie Bird's wing droop. But all this time the Colonel was not just at ease, for he had not succeeded in nailing the correct name which seemed to fit in the grooves of the genial countenance of "his friend."

Turning to "Pat," he asks "How's old 'Bax'?" (Senator Baxter.) "Oh, he's all right—he's always all right," says "Pat."

"How's my friend George Stocking?" "He's A1," assure "Pat."

"How's Little 'Mac'?" (McHenry), the Colonel next inquires.

"Oh, 'Mac' is as tart as ever," says "Pat."

"Well, how is Captain Dicus?" he next inquires.

"Just the same as ever," says "Pat."

"Oh yes, how is my old friend 'Pat'?" come next. "I haven't seen the old boy for a dog's age." (And the assembled company is interested in the friendly inquiries.)

Grasping the Colonel's hand, and with a twinkle in his eye the Colonel's "friend from Ogle" said:

"Well, Colonel, I am 'Pat.'" And the Colonel's friends nearly fell dead with laughter.

But the Colonel is nearly equal to the occasion, for he says, "Why of course, I knew you all the time." And the best cigars in the house were passed around at the Colonel's expense, for it was evidently "up to him," to do something handsome—and he did it.

TOO MUCH WATER FOR FISH

Husband Filled the Tub too Full and Carp Died.

William Cluebeck of Chicago is a guest of S. W. Larson of the Stewart Press. Thursday he went fishing and his luck was good, as he had a three-pound carp to his credit. This fine fish he presented to Charles Ebner, foreman of the Stewart Press. Mr. Ebner was pleased and took the fish, which was alive, home to his wife, who put it in a tub full of water. But in the morning Mrs. Ebner found the fish dead and floating on top of the water. In explaining the incident to her friends and neighbors, she stated that her husband had filled the tub too full of water.

$10 for Hitting Pickle Patch.

DEMENT-TOWN DOINGS

Herman Fry of Polo was here today on business with Phil Miller.

Phil Miller and Joe Miller went to Grand Detour and Oregon Friday on business.

John Grant was shaking hands with old friends on the avenue Friday afternoon.

R. A. Wheelers, day operator at the Illinois Central depot, was in Mendota today.

Tobe Wallace still has that fine bull pup. Go and see him. It is a very affectionate beast.

Mrs. Foster Stambrough returned today from a weeks visit in Chicago with Charles Herrick and wife.

Mike O'Neal came back. He is again car repairer at the Illinois Central. William Neal has gone back to Freeport.

Carl Northrup is a horse doctor. You ought to hear him tell how he gets up at 4 o'clock and gives medical attention to the horse driven by Chas. Powell.

Alderman Patrick Whalen made some fancy moves about 11 o'clock the other night in his place of business. We are liable to give the public this information through the kindness of "Hoddy" Hendrix, who was largely instrumental in assisting the alderman to make the fancy moves. Those nigger Chasers are all right.

Charles Powell is engaged in the study of fishology. He goes fishing every evening to procure specimens. The other evening he came home with several nice suckers and he was showing them to his friends, explaining how and where he caught such nice catfish. It was explained to him that they were suckers, but Charles was a long time believing it. He borrowed a zoology from his former teacher and is now taking lessons.

Dr. E. A. Johnston, wife and trunk left Dement-town last night for some other town. Dement-town is now without a doctor. Just why Doctor Johnson took such a sudden notion to quit the place is not known. Well, let us hope for the best. Of course Dement-town feels that it is being imposed upon by the down town districts. More level headed men think it is not true, but why is it so?

TRUSTED IN A CONVICT

That Is How Mrs. Yates Came to Loose a Bunch of Valuable Gems.

SLEUTHS WATCHING FOR HIM

He Hears His Victim Announce Her Loss Over the 'Phone—Praise State News.

Springfield, Ill., July 15.—Police authorities of the entire state have been enlisted in a search for Arthur Hughes, alias Harry Williams, the colored man who stole jewels to the value of $3,000 from the residence of ex-Gov. Richard Yates in this city last month. Owing to the fact that Governor Yates was in Kentucky attending the trial of Caleb Powers at the time of the robbery Mrs. Yates withheld information from the local police and summoned to her aid Superintendent Mallory, of the Pontiac reformatory.

Paroled Convict Not Trusty. Williams was a paroled convict from that institution and had been employed by the Yates family for only a short time when the robbery was committed. Superintendent Mallory has offered a reward of $100 for the capture of Williams and Mrs. Yates has added $150 to the amount. The robbery was effected June 7. Mrs. Yates became aware of the loss of her jewels within a few hours after they were taken. She immediately suspected Williams, and it is said, found one of the missing brooches fastened inside a coat he had left hanging in the hall of the house.

Thief Heard the Conversation. Mrs. Yates immediately called up Superintendent Mallory at Pontiac on the telephone. Williams was on the second floor of the Yates residence and overheard the entire conversation through an auxiliary telephone receiver located there. He heard Mallory promise to come to Springfield on the first train, and then quietly hung up the receiver and laid his plans for escape. He attended to his regular duties up to within a few minutes of that time and then disappeared.

HAS IGNORED A STATE LAW

Chicago School Board Accused of Buying Desks Without Getting Figures from the State Prisons.

Springfield, Ill., July 15.—Charles M. Tinney, state sales agent for the board of prison industry, has filed a complaint with Governor Deneen against the Chicago board of education charging violation of the amended convict labor bill. It is asserted that the school board recently purchased $45,000 worth of school desks from A. H. Andrews & Co., Chicago, without securing figures from the prison industry board as provided by the new law.

Attorney General Stead has been requested to give an opinion to the governor in the matter. Tinney took up the matter of purchasing supplies with the Chicago board some time ago, but nothing was determined upon. Since then, he says, he has heard nothing from the trustees, but from other sources he learned that it had contracted with Andrews & Co. for the desks.

Mule Market Is Bought Out.

Decatur, Ill., July 15.—More than 1,100 mules were bought in Decatur and Macon county for outside shipment during June. The supply seems exhausted, and not over a dozen a week are now forthcoming. Danville, Ill., wants 500 mules at once, but buyers from that city are just a month behind time in coming here for them.

Joe Leiter Gives to a College.

Ewing, Ill., July 15.—Joseph Leiter, the operator of the Zeigler mine in Franklin county, has established a new department at Ewing college, that of domestic science. The institution is one of the leading Baptist colleges in Illinois. Leiter will not say what prompted him to make the donation.

Will Provide More School Room.

Decatur, Ill., July 15.—The local board of education has determined upon a loan of $40,000 to be used in the immediate erection of two school buildings. The schools were overcrowded last year, and the census shows 479 additional children to be provided for.

Oldest Pythian Is Dead.

Rock Island, Ill., July 15.—Richard Wareham, the oldest member of the Knights of Pythias, is dead of heart disease at his home here. He was 70 years old, and was the last surviving charter member of the original lodge, organized at Washington in 1862.

Lived Seventy-Three Years at Peoria.

Peoria, Ill., July 15.—Auren Garrett, one of the pioneers of Illinois and for seventy-two years a resident of Peoria, is dead here from heart failure and senility at the age of 87 years. Born in Litchfield, Conn., Sept. 29, 1818, he came here in 1833.

Charged with Passing a Bad Check.

Rockford, Ill., July 15.—Harry H. Carney has been arrested at the home of his mother. He is wanted in Chicago for the alleged passing of a worthless check. Carney was at one time a painter of animals. He was also a horseman.

Ban Over His Own Little Son.

Paris, Ill., July 15.—Dr. Harry J. Jones, a wealthy retired physician, formerly of Indianapolis, ran over and, it is feared, seriously injured his little 4-year-old son "Jack" while speeding in an automobile.

ILLUSTRATED SERMON CENTRAL PARK OPENS

By Rev. A. T. Hettrick Was a Feature at Franklin Grove Camp Meeting Last Night.

WARD MILLER ELECTED CAPTAIN

Strong Program for Sunday and Large Crowd Is Expected.

Franklin Grove, July 15.—Yesterday Rev. Bartle of Mechanicsville, Ia., preached a very excellent sermon from the text, "What Mean Ye by these Stones?" The subject was the construction of character, its material and architecture. Mr. Bartle is a very forceful speaker and held the closest attention of the audience. He said, that Christ is the one and only foundation of true character structure on that foundation, he said he would place three basal stones, faith, hope and love, thus forming a triangle, on faith he would build successively the stones of righteousness, gifts, usefulness, on hope the stones of self-control, honesty and reputation, on love patience, justice and joy. He closed with an effective incident of his own experience. Some three years he visited the churchyard in England where his father is buried, and kneeling at his grave, he seemed to see the noble christian character of the man who had played so important a part in moral fashioning of the lives of his children all of whom are christians today. Monuments built to commemorate the deeds of men, whether of bronze or granite or farthest Parian marble will some day crumble, but the monument of character, such as his father built will lift itself in majesty amid the glories of heaven throughout eternity.

Last evening Rev. A. Hettrick gave another illustrated sermon on the events of the Passion week. The pictures were very fine, and the lecturer's description and religious appeal were clear and forceful. The movement of the stage scenes began with a picture of the last supper, through the various changes given in the joyful story, to the consummation on Calvary, and the resurrection triumph. The closing picture was that which represents Christ as returning to earth, through the spirit and knocking at the door of the human heart.

Dr. Lloyd will be here this evening. The presiding elder has received word from Dr. Parks that he will be on hand for his work at the appointed time. Tomorrow's program will be very strong and a large crowd is expected.

The hotel is doing good business and patrons are high in their praise of board and service. To know that it is under "Nachusa" management is a sufficient guarantee for both quality and variety.

The kindergarten is open and the children under the direction of Miss Lullis are having a delightful time. The Junior League held their first service yesterday. Rev. W. Scott, the leader, had every available child on the ground at the opening service. That means that every youngster will be present at each Junior service throughout the campaign. Mr. Scott is a genius with the boys and girls. He holds their attention apparently without effort, from the opening to the close of the service. Miss Smith, of Mount Morris, very efficiently cooperates with him in this interesting work.

Next Monday will be Missionary day. The women of the Home society and of the Foreign society have been very fortunate in securing speakers. Mrs. Nasmith will speak in behalf of the Home society. She is a most captivating speaker. The winsome personality, and simplicity of speech and manner, never fails to disarm all criticism and to win from all who hear her a practical sympathy for her work. The Foreign society will be represented by Mrs. Olin Cady of China. Mrs. Cady has had a very long and at times exciting experience in her long period of missionary work in the Orient. Coming to us from the storm center of the world, she will be able to speak as a voice direct from that quarter of the world that is destined to be the scene of the most momentous movements in the next twenty years.

The following preachers are on the ground: J. R. Hamilton, G. I. Larash, O. L. Clapper, A. W. Hettrick, F. W. Nazarene, W. L. Whipple, J. N. Dingle, W. C. Scott.

Dixon Browns Will Cross Bats With the Professional Nine From Morrison Tomorrow Afternoon.

WARD MILLER ELECTED CAPTAIN

Manager Kennedy Has Promised Dixon Team Supper if Victorious.

Tomorrow afternoon will be held the opening game at Central Park. It will be a closely contested game between the Dixon Browns and the nine from Morrison. When the same teams played a few weeks ago the Morrison team won by a close score. However, everything looks pretty favorable for a victory for the "Browns." Especially when it is known that Manager Kennedy has promised the home team a big feast at the Owl restaurant Sunday night if the score proves to be a victory for the Dixon boys. In addition to the supper, several of the merchants have offered prizes for the best batting, base-running, and fielding averages. Accordingly, it is up to the Dixon Browns to do something fine at the opening game. The new suits for the team were shipped Friday night from Chicago, and will be here for the players to wear on Sunday. At the game tomorrow all ladies will be admitted free. The grandstand and bleachers are in readiness for the spectators, and everything has been done for the comfort of those who witness the contest Sunday afternoon.

This morning an attractive poster made its appearance. It pictured the Dixon Browns at their best. Last night the Dixon team held a meeting with the manager at which Ward Miller was elected captain. The official lineup of the Dixon Browns for tomorrow is as follows:

- Joe Killan, catcher.
 - Bob. Woodyatt, pitcher.
 - E. R. Hall, first base.
 - Clyde Goodman, second base.
 - Andrew Donnelly, third base.
 - Mont Bales, short stop.
 - Charles Greer, left field.
 - Ward Miller, captain, center field.
 - Howard Woodyatt, right field.
 - Mark Woodyatt, substitute.
- The Morrison line-up for the Sunday game is as follows:
- Colton, catcher.
 - Pisel or Reese, pitcher.
 - Strawbridge, first base.
 - Shields, second base.
 - Smith, third base.
 - Parsons, short stop.
 - Riley, right field.
 - Abbott, left field.
 - Gardner, center field.

POLO BEATS WINSLOW.

Yesterday Rochelle and Clinton crossed bats to the sorrow of Clinton who was beaten 2 to 1 by Rochelle. Andrew Donnelly, who plays with the Dixon Browns at third base, took part in the contest between the Polo and Winslow nines yesterday afternoon. He played with the Polo nine which beat its opponents by a score of 4 to 3. Next Tuesday the Polo team will play the Union Giants of Chicago.

PARADE IS UP TO STANDARD

Wm. P. Hall's Circus Pleased Large Crowd at Morrison.

Special to THE TELEGRAPH. Morrison, Ill., July 15.—The Wm. P. Hall Show is here today with its forty cars of trained animals, etc. This morning the street parade was witnessed by several thousand people, and it was declared by all to be a parade of high standard. It will leave for Dixon late tonight, and will probably arrive there early Sunday morning. The impression had gained ground that it was a small circus, but Morrison citizens were agreeably surprised.

FIND BEGINNING OF OLD ROAD

Stake Found South of Railroad Switch in Gap Grove.

Yesterday the beginning of the public road running from Gap Grove west through Sugar Grove was discovered after a half day's work on the part of the county surveyor and his assistants. It was found just south of the electric railroad switch in Gap Grove. The work will be continued Monday morning when the line will be followed up. Work was delayed at the first of the week by the heavy rains.

NOW IS THE TIME

Buy Your Wife a Gas Range.

Do not allow her to be subjected to the terrible heat from an ordinary cooking stove, or the danger from a gasoline stove. A Gas Range does the cooking quicker, cheaper, cleaner, and safer than it can be done in any other way. The price of Gas stoves is exceptionally low now, and the Gas Company will sell you one almost on your own terms. Gas is the best fuel for summer, because the heat is all under the pan and not distributed about the kitchen. Strike a match and there is instantly all the heat you want just where you want it. Turn a valve and the heat stops. There is scarcely a week that there isn't a narrow escape from death or the destruction of a house in Dixon from the deadly gasoline stove. Who will be the next victim. Call now before too late and arrange for a Gas Range. We have just received a new carload of the best of Gas stoves. Come and see them.

LADY PRESS REPRESENTATIVE

Lillian Calvert Van Osten With Pawnee Bill Advertising Force.

THE TELEGRAPH office yesterday received a call from Miss Lillian Calvert, who travels as a special press representative of Pawnee Bill's Historical Wild West and Great Far East. She is the wife of Manager Van Osten of Advertising Car No. 2, under whose supervision twenty-five men were yesterday bannering, lithographing and bill-posting Lee county. Charming and petite, Mrs. Van Osten has a very interesting personality. She was educated for a musical career but later went on the stage where she sang in musical comedies and dramatic works. She was in Dixon eight years ago, driving here from Rochelle where she has relatives.

CHAPTER XIV.

YOU are a dear unreasonable little girl," he said. "Have you breath enough to tell me why you came down the ladder?" "When I discovered you were gone I became wild with fright. Don't you see, I imagined you were wounded and had fallen from the ledge. What else could I do but follow, either to help you, or, if that were not possible—"

He found her hand and pressed it to his lips. "I humbly crave your pardon," he said. "That explanation is more than ample. It was I who behaved unreasonably. Of course I should have warned you."

"May I ask how many more wild adventures you undertook without my knowledge?"

"One other, of great magnitude. I fell in love with you."

"Nonsense!" she retorted. "I knew that long before you admitted it to yourself."

"Date, please?"

"Well, to begin at the very beginning, you thought I was nice on board the Sirdar. Now, didn't you?"

And they were safely embarked on a conversation of no interest to any other person in the wide world, but which provided them with the most delightful topic imaginable.

Thus the time sped until the rising moon silhouetted the cliff on the white carpet of coral strewn sand. The black shadow line traveled slowly closer to the base of the cliff, and Jenks, guided also by the stars, told Iris that midnight was at hand.

They knelt on the parapet of the ledge, alert to catch any unusual sound and watching for any indication of human movement. But Rainbow Island was now still as the grave. The wounded Dyaks had seemingly been removed from hut and beach. The dead lay where they had fallen. The sea sang a lullaby to the reef, and the fresh breeze whispered among the palm fronds—that was all.

If the Mussulman kept his compact the hour was at hand. Then the light hiss of a snake rose to them from the depths. That is a sound never forgotten when once heard. It is like unto no other. Indeed the term "hiss" is a misnomer for the quick sibilant expulsion of the breath by an alarmed or angered serpent.

Iris paid no heed to it; but Jenks, who knew there was not a reptile of the snake variety on the island, leaned over the ledge and emitted a tolerably good imitation. The native was benighted.

"Sahib!"

The girl started at the unexpected call from the depths.

"Yes," said Jenks quietly.

"A rope, sahib?"

The sailor lowered a rope. Something was tied to it beneath. The Mohammedan apparently had little fear of being detected.

"Full, sahib?"

"Usually it is the sahib who says 'pull,' but circumstances alter cases," commented Jenks. He hauled steadily at a heavy weight, a goatskin filled with cold water. He emptied the hot and sour wine out of the tin cup and was about to hand the thrice welcomed draft to Iris when a suspicious thought caused him to withhold it.

"Let me taste first," he said.

The Indian might have betrayed them to the Dyaks. More unlikely things had happened. What if the water were poisoned or drugged?

He placed the tin to his lips. The liquid was musty, having been in the skin nearly two days. Otherwise it seemed to be all right. With a sigh of profound relief he gave Iris the cup and smiled at the most unladylike lasso with which she emptied it.

"Drink yourself and give me some more," she said.

"No more for you at present, madam. In a few minutes, yes."

"Oh, why not now?"

"Do not fret, dear one. You can have all you want in a little while. But to drink much now would make you very ill."

Iris waited until he could speak again.

"Why did you?" she began.

But he bent over the parapet.

"Hello!"

"You have not been followed?"

"I think not, sahib. Do not talk too loud. They are foxes in cunning. You have a ladder, they say, sahib. Will not your honor descend? I have much to relate."

Iris made no protest when Jenks explained the man's request. She only stipulated that he should not leave the ladder, while she would remain within easy earshot. The sailor, of course, carried his revolver. He also picked up a crowbar, a most useful and silent weapon. Then he went quietly downward. Nearing the ground, he saw the native, who saluted deeply and was unarmed. The poor fellow seemed to be very anxious to help them.

"What is your name?" demanded the sailor.

"Mir Jan, sahib, formerly corporal in the Kumaon regiment."

"When did you leave the regiment?"

"Two years ago, sahib. I killed!"

"What was the name of your colonel?"

"Kurnal I-shpence-sahib, a brave man, but of no account on a horse."

Jenks well remembered Colonel Spence—a fat, short-legged warrior, who rolled off his charger if the animal so much as looked sideways. Mir Jan was telling the truth.

"You are right, Mir Jan. What is Taung S'Ali doing now?"

"Cursing, sahib, for the most part. His men are frightened. He wanted them to try once more with the tubes that shoot poison, but they refused. He could not come alone, for he could not use his right hand, and he was wounded by the blowing up of the rock. You nearly killed me, too, sahib. I was there with the bazaar-born whelps. By the prophet's beard, it was a fine stroke."

"Are they going away, then?"

"No, sahib. The dogs have been whipped so sore that they snarl for revenge. They say there is no use in firing at you, but they are resolved to kill you and the miss sahib or carry her off if she escapes the assault."

"What assault?"

"Protector of the poor, they are building scaling ladders—four in all. Soon after dawn they intend to rush your position. You may slay some, they say, but you cannot slay three score. Taung S'Ali has promised gold to every man who survives if they succeed. They have pulled down your signal on the high rocks and are using the poles for the ladders. They think you have a charm, sahib, and they want to use your own work against you."

This was serious news. A combined attack might indeed be dangerous, though it had the excellent feature that if it failed the Dyaks would certainly leave the island. But his sky sign destroyed! That was bad. Had a vessel chanced to pass the swinging letters would surely have attracted attention. Now even that faint hope was dispelled.

"Sahib, there is a worse thing to tell," said Mir Jan.

"Say on, then."

"Before they place the ladders against the cliff they will build a fire of green wood so that the smoke will be blown by the wind into your eyes. This will help to blind your aim. Otherwise you never miss."

"That will assuredly be awkward, Mir Jan."

"It will, sahib. Soul of my father, if we had but half a troop with us!"

But they had not, and they were both so intent on the conversation that they were momentarily off their guard. Iris was more watchful. She fancied there was a light rustling amid the undergrowth beneath the trees on the right. And she could hiss, too, if that were the correct thing to do.

So she hissed.

Jenks swarmed halfway up the ladder.

"Yes, Iris," he said.

"I am not sure, but I imagine something moved among the bushes behind the house."

"All right, dear. I will keep a sharp lookout. Can you hear us talking?"

"Hardly. Will you be long?"

"Another minute."

He descended and told Mir Jan what the miss sahib said. The native was about to make a search when Jenks stopped him.

"Here!" he handed the man his revolver—"I suppose you can use this?"

Mir Jan took it without a word, and Jenks felt that the incident atoned for previous unworthy doubts of his dark friend's honesty. The Mohammedan cautiously examined the back of the house, the neighboring shrubs and the open beach. After a brief absence he reported all safe, yet no man has ever been nearer death and escaped it than he during that reconnaissance. He, too, forgot that the Dyaks were foxes, and foxes can lie close when hounds are a trifle stale.

Mir Jan returned the revolver.

"Sahib," he said, with another salaam, "I am a disgraced man, but if you will take me up there with you I will fight by your side until both my arms are hacked off. I am weary of these thieves. Ill chance threw me in to their company. I will have no more of them. If you will not have me on the rock, give me a gun. I will hide among the trees, and I promise that some of them shall die tonight before they find me. For the honor of the regiment, sahib, do not refuse this thing. All I ask is if your honor escapes that you will write to Kurnal I-shpence-sahib and tell him the last act of Mir Jan, corporal in B troop."

Jenks was profoundly moved. He reflected how best to utilize the services of this willing volunteer without exposing him to certain death in the manner suggested. The native misinterpreted his silence.

"I am not a rascal, sahib," he exclaimed proudly. "I only killed a man because—"

"Listen, Mir Jan. You cannot well mend what you have said. The Dyaks, you are sure, will not come before morning?"

"They have carried the wounded to the boats and are making the ladders. Such was their talk when I left them."

"Will they not miss you?"

"They will miss the goatskin, sahib. It was the last full one."

"Mir Jan, do as I bid and you shall see Delhi again. Have you ever used a Lee-Metford?"

"I have seen them, sahib, but I better understand the Mahtini."

"I will give you a rifle, with plenty of ammunition. Do you go inside the cave, there, and—"

Mir Jan was startled.

"Where the ghost is, sahib?" he said.

"Ghost! That is a tale for children. There is no ghost, only a few bones of a man murdered by these scoundrels long ago. Have you any food?"

"Some rice, sahib; sufficient for a day or two at a pinch."

"Good! We will get water from the well. When the fighting begins at dawn fire at every man you see from the back of the cave. On no account come out. Then they can never reach you if you keep a full magazine. Wait here."

"I thought you were never coming," protested Iris when Jenks reached the ledge. "I have been quite creepy. I am sure there is some one down there. And, please, may I have another drink?"

The sailor had left the crowbar beneath. He secured a rifle, a spare clip and a dozen packets of cartridges, meanwhile briefly explaining to Iris the turn taken by events so far as Mir Jan was concerned. She was naturally delighted and forgot her fears in the excitement caused by the appearance of so useful an ally. She drank his health in a brimming beaker of water.

She heard her lover rejoin Mir Jan and saw the two step out into the moonlight, while Jenks explained the action of the rifle. Fortunately Iris was now much recovered from the fatigue and privation of the earlier hours. Her senses were sharpened to a pitch little dreamed of by stay-at-home young ladies of her age, and she deemed it her province to act as sentry while the two men conferred. Hence she was the first to detect, or rather, to become conscious of, the stealthy crawl of several Dyaks along the bottom of the cliff from Turtle beach.

"Robert!" she screamed. "The Dyaks! On your left!"

But Iris was rapidly gaining some knowledge of strategy. Before she shrieked her warning she grasped a rifle. Holding it at the "ready"—about the level of her waist—and depressing the muzzle sufficiently, she began firing down the side of the rock as fast as she could handle lever and trigger. Two of the nickel bullets struck a projection and splashed the leading savages with molten metal.

Unfortunately Jenks' rifle beneath was unloaded, being in Mir Jan's possession for purposes of instruction. Jenks whipped out his revolver.

"To the cave!" he roared, and Mir Jan's unwillingness to face a goblin could not withstand the combined impetus of the sahib's order and the onward rush of the enemy. He darted headlong for the entrance.

Jenks, shooting blindly as he, too, ran for the ladder, emptied the revolver just as his left hand clutched a rung. Three Dyaks were so close that it would be folly to attempt to climb. He threw the weapon into the face of the foremost man, effectually stopping his onward progress.

The sailor turned to dive into the cave and secure the rifle from Mir Jan, when his shin caught the heavy crowbar resting against the rock. The pain of the blow lent emphasis to the swing with which the implement descended upon some portion of a Dyak anatomy. Jenks never knew where he hit the second assailant, but the place cracked like an eggshell.

He had not time to recover the bar for another blow, so he drove the point in the gullet of a gentleman who was in running for shelter, and one may do fair work by moonlight.

She had strength enough left to place the rifle out of harm's way before she broke down and sobbed not tearfully, but in a paroxysm of reaction. Soon all was quiet beneath save for the labored efforts of some wounded man to get far away from that accursed rock. Jenks was able to turn to Iris. He endeavored to allay her agitation and succeeded somewhat, for tears came, and she clung to him. It was useless to reproach him. The whole incident was unforeseen. She was herself a party to it. But what an escape!

"You have been a very good little girl and have earned your supper," he said.

"Oh, how can you talk so callously after such an awful experience?" she expostulated brokenly.

"It is a small thing to trouble about, sweetheart," he explained. "You spotted the enemy so promptly and blazed away with such ferocity that they never got within yards of me."

"Are you sure?"

"I vow and declare that after we have eaten something and sampled our remaining bottle of wine I will tell you exactly what happened."

"Why not now?"

"Because I must first see to Mir Jan. I bundled him neck and crop into the cave. I hope I did not hurt him."

"You are not going down there again?"

"No need, I trust."

He went to the side of the ledge, recovered the ladder which he had hastily hauled out of the Dyaks' reach after his climb, and cried:

"Mir Jan!"

"Ah, sahib! Pleased be the name of the Most High, you are alive. I was searching among the slain with a sorrowful heart."

The Mohammedan's voice came from some little distance on the left.

"The slain, you say. How many?"

"Five, sahib."

"Impossible! I fired blindly with the revolver and only hit one man hard with the iron bar. One other dropped near the wood after I obtained a rifle."

"Then there be six, sahib, not reckoning the wounded. I have accounted for one, so the miss sahib must have—"

"What is he saying about me?" inquired Iris, who had risen and joined her lover.

"He says you absolutely staggered the Dyaks by opening fire the moment they appeared."

"How did you come to slay one, Mir Jan?" he continued.

"A son of a black pig followed me into the cave. I waited for him in the darkness. I have just thrown his body outside."

"Well done! Is Taung S'Ali dead by any lucky chance?"

"No, sahib, if he be not the sixth. I will go and see."

"You may be attacked."

"I have found a sword, sahib. You left me no cartridges."

Jenks told him that the clip and the twelve packets were lying at the foot of the rock, where Mir Jan speedily discovered them. The Mohammedan gave satisfactory assurance that he understood the mechanism of the rifle by filling and adjusting the magazine. Then he went to examine the corpse of the man who lay in the open near the quarry path.

The sailor stood in instant readiness to make a counter demonstration were the native assailed. But there was no sign of the Dyaks. Mir Jan returned with the news that the sixth victim of the brief yet fierce encounter was a renegade Malay. He was so confident that the enemy had enough of it for the night that, after recovering Jenks' revolver, he boldly went to the well and drew himself a supply of water.

During supper Jenks told Iris so much of the story as was good for her—that is to say, he cut down the casualty list.

It was easy to see what had happened. The Dyaks, having missed the Mohammedan and their water bag, searched for him and heard the conversation at the foot of the rock. Knowing that their presence was suspected, they went back for reinforcements and returned by the shorter and more advantageous route along Turtle beach.

Iris would have talked all night, but Jenks made her go to sleep by pillowing her head against his shoulder and smoothing her tangled tresses with his hand.

He managed to lay her on a comfortable pile of ragged clothing and then resumed his vigil. Mir Jan offered to mount guard beneath, but Jenks bade him go within the cave and remain there, for the dawn would soon be upon them.

Left alone with his thoughts, he wondered what the rising sun would bring in its train. He reviewed the events of the last twenty-four hours. Iris and he—Miss Deane, Mr. Jenks, to each other—were then undiscovered in their refuge, the Dyaks were gathered around a roaring fire in the valley, and Mir Jan was keen in the hunt as the keenest among them. Now Iris was his affianced bride, over twenty of the enemy were killed and many wounded, and Mir Jan, a devoted adherent, was seated beside the skeleton in the gloom of the cavern.

A period of reflection could hardly pass without a speculative dive into the future. If Iris and he were rescued, what would happen when they went forth once more into the busy world? Not for one instant did he doubt her faith. She was true as steel, knit to him now by bonds of triple brass. But what would Sir Arthur Deane think of his daughter's marriage to a discredited and cashiered officer? What was that poor Mir Jan called himself—"a disgraced man"? Yes, that was it. Could that stain be removed? Mir Jan was doing it. Why not he—by other means, for his good name rested on the word of a perjured woman? Wealth was potent, but not all powerful. He would ask Iris to wait until he came to her unsmiled by slander, purged of this odium cast upon him unmerited.

To awake her he kissed her; he knew not, perchance it might be their last kiss on earth. Not yet dawn, there was morning in the air, for the first faint shafts of light were not visible from their eyrie owing to its position. But there was much to be done.

The canvas awning was rolled back and the stores built into a barricade intended to shelter Iris.

"What is that for?" she asked when she discovered its nature. He told her. She definitely refused to avail herself of any such protection.

"Robert, dear," she said, "if the attack comes to our very door, so to speak, surely I must help you. Even my slight aid may stem a rush in one place while you are busy in another."

He explained to her that if hand to hand fighting were necessary he would depend more upon a crowbar than a rifle to sweep the ledge clear. She might be in the way.

"Very well. The moment you tell me to get behind that fence I will do so. Even then I can use a revolver."

That reminded him. His own pistol was unloaded. He possessed only five more cartridges of small caliber. He placed them in the weapon and gave it to her.

"Now you have eleven men's lives in your hands," he said. "Try not to miss if you must shoot."

In the dim light he could not see the spasm of pain that clouded her face. No Dyak would reach her while he lived. If he fell, there was another use for one of those cartridges.

The sailor had cleared the main floor of the rock and was placing his four rifles and other implements within easy reach when a hiss came from beneath.

"Mir Jan!" exclaimed Iris.

"What now?" demanded Jenks over the side.

"Sahib, they come!"

"I am prepared. Let that snake get back to his hole in the rock, lest a mongoose seize him by the head."

Mir Jan, engaged in a scouting expedition on his own account, understood that the officer sahib's orders must be obeyed. He vanished. Soon they heard a great crackling among the bushes on the right, but Jenks knew even before he looked that the Dyaks had correctly estimated the extent of his fire zone and would keep out of it.

The first physical intimation of the enemy's design they received was a pungent but pleasant smell of burning pine, borne to them by the northerly breeze and filling the air with its aroma. The Dyaks kindled a huge fire. The heat was perceptible even on the ledge, but the minutes passed and the dawn broadened into day without any other result being achieved.

Iris, a little drawn and pale with suspense, said, with a timid giggle:

"This does not seem to be so very serious. It reminds me of my efforts to cook."

"There is more to follow, I fear, dear one. But the Dyaks are fools. They should have waited until night fell again after wearing us out by constant vigilance all day. If they intend to employ smoke it would be far worse for us at night."

Plew! A volume of murky vapor arose that nearly suffocated them by the first whiff of its noisome fumes. It curled like a black pall over the face of the rock and blotted out sea and sky. They coughed incessantly and nearly choked, for the Dyaks had thrown wet seaweed on top of the burning pile of dry wood. Mir Jan, born in interior India, knew little about the sea or its products, and when the savages talked of seaweed he thought they meant green wood. Fortunately for him, the ascending clouds of smoke missed the cave or infallibly he must have been stifled.

"Lie flat on the rock!" gasped Jenks. Careless of waste, he poured water over a coat and made Iris bury her mouth and nose in the wet cloth. This gave her immediate relief, and she showed her woman's wit by tying the sleeves of the garment behind her neck. Jenks nodded comprehension and followed her example, for by this means their hands were left free.

The black cloud grew more dense each few seconds. Nevertheless, owing to the slope of the ledge and the tendency of the smoke to rise, the south side was far more tenable than the north. Quick to note this favorable circumstance, the sailor deduced a further fact from it. A barrier erected on the extreme right of the ledge would be a material gain. He sprang up, dragged the huge tarpaulin from its former location and propped it on the handle of the pickax, driven by one mighty stroke deep into a crevice of the rock.

It was no mean feat of strength that he performed. He swung the heavy and cumbersome canvas into position as if it were a dust cloth. He emerged from the gloom of the driven cloud red eyed, but triumphant. Instantly the vapor on the ledge lessened, and they could breathe, even talk. Overhead and in front the smoke swept in ever increasing density, but once again the sailor had outwitted the Dyaks' maneuvers.

"We have won the first rubber," he whispered to Iris.

Above, beneath, beyond, they could see nothing. The air they breathed was hot and fetid. It was like being immersed in a foul tunnel, and almost as dark. Jenks looked over the parapet. He thought he could distinguish some vague figures on the sands, so he fired at them. A volley of answering bullets crashed into the rock on all sides. The Dyaks had laid their plans well this time. A firing squad stationed beyond the smoke area and supplied with all the available guns commenced and kept up a smart fusillade in the direction of the ledge in order to cover the operations of the scaling party.

Jenks realized that to expose himself was to court a serious wound and achieve no useful purpose. He fell back out of range, laid down his rifle and grabbed the crowbar. At brief intervals a deep hollow boom came up from the valley. At first it puzzled them until the sailor hit upon an explanation. Mir Jan was busy.

The end of a strong, roughly made ladder swung through the smoke and banged against the ledge. Before Jenks could reach it those hoisting it into position hastily retreated. They were standing in front of the cave, and the Mohammedan made play on them with a rifle at thirty feet.

Jenks, using his crowbar as a lever, toppled the ladder clear over. It fell outward and disconcerted a section of the musketeers.

"Well done!" cried Iris.

The sailor, astounded by her tone, gave her a fleeting glance. She was very pale now, but not with fear. Her eyes were slightly contracted, her nostrils quivering, her lips set tight and her chin dimpled. Resting on one knee, with a revolver in each hand, she seemed to be pulling mate for the gallant man who fought for her.

There was no time for further speech. Three ladders were reared against the rock. They were so poised and held below that Jenks could not force them backward. A fourth appeared, its coarse shafts looming into sight like the horns of some gigantic animal. The four covered practically the whole front of the ledge save where Mir Jan cleared a little space on the level.

The sailor was standing now, with the crowbar clinched in both hands. The firing in the valley slackened and died away. A Dyak face, grinning like a Japanese demon, appeared at the top of the ladder nearest to Iris.

"Don't fire!" shouted Jenks. And the iron bar crashed downward. Two others pitched themselves half on to the ledge. Now both crowbar and revolver were needed. Three ladders were thus cumbered somewhat for those beneath, and Jenks sprang toward the fourth and most distant. Men were crowding it like ants. Close to his feet lay an empty water cask. It was a crude weapon, but effective when well pitched, and the sailor had never made a better shot for a goal in the midst of a hard fought scrimmage than he made with that tub for the head of the uppermost pirate.

Another volley came from the sands. A bullet plowed through his hair and sent his sou'wester flying. Again the besiegers swarmed to the attack. One way or the other they must succeed. A man and a woman—even such a man and such a woman—could not keep at bay an infuriated horde of fifty savages fighting at close quarters and under these grievous conditions.

Jenks knew what would happen. He would be shot while repelling the scaling party. And Iris! Dear heart! She was thinking of him.

"Keep back! They can never gain the ledge!" she shrieked.

And then, above the din of the fusillade, the yells of the assailants and the bawling of the wounded, there came through the air a screaming, tearing, ripping sound which drowned all others. It traveled with incredible speed, and before the sailor could believe his ears—for he well knew what it meant—a shrapnel shell burst in front of the ledge and drenched the valley with flying lead.

Jenks was just able to drag Iris flat against the rock ere the time fuse operated and the bullets flew. He could form no theory, hazard no conjecture. All he knew was that a twelve pounder shell had flown toward them through space, scattering red ruin among the amazed scoundrels beneath. Instantly he rose again, lest perchance any of the Dyaks should have gained a foothold on the ledge.

The ladders were empty. He could hear a good deal of groaning, the footsteps of running men and some distant shouting.

"Sahib!" yelled Mir Jan, drawn from his retreat by the commotion without.

"Yes," shouted Jenks.

The native, in a voice cracked with excitement, told him something. The sailor asked a few rapid questions to make quite sure that Mir Jan was not mistaken.

Then he threw his arms round Iris, drew her close and whispered:

"My darling, we are saved! A warship has anchored just beyond the south reef, and two boats filled with armed sailors are now pulling ashore."

plaint for about two years," writes A.
H. Davis, of Mt. Sterling, Ia., "but two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure effected a permanent cure." Rowland

TREAT YOUR KIDNEYS FOR RHEUMATISM.

When you are suffering from rheumatism, the kidneys must be attended to at once so that they will eliminate the uric acid from the blood. Foley's Kidney Cure is the most effective remedy for this purpose. R. T. Hopkins, of Polar, Wis., says, "After unsuccessfully doctoring three years for rheumatism with the best doctors, I tried Foley's Kidney Cure and it cured me.
I cannot speak too highly of this great medicine." Row and Bros.

SOLONS BALK AT PRESS PRIVILEGE

Justice Hooker Case Develops an Issue Between Legislature and a Journal.

IT PRINTED SERIOUS CHARGES

Chief Editor Says He Does Not Know
the Author, and His Subordinate Refuses to Tell.

Albany, N. Y., July 15.—Editor-in-Chief Ervin Wardman, of the New York Press, was the storm center in the state legislature. His refusal to give his authority for his expressed belief that members of the legislature had been the subject of improper influences in connection with the trial of the charges against Supreme Court Justice Hooker produced intense excitement, and the question of the disposal of his case has entirely overshadowed in interest here the charges against Justice Hooker. Incidentally the situation has raised far-reaching questions as to the status and powers of the present joint session.

Want Their Accuser to Face Them.

The situation developed unexpectedly out of the desire of members of the legislature to learn who wrote an article in The Press of last Wednesday in which it was asserted that both political pressure and "bottle" were being invoked in behalf of Justice Hooker to prevent his removal from office as a justice of the supreme court.
Wardman appeared in person, and declared that the article had appeared during his absence on vacation and he did not know who wrote it. He was instructed to telephone during the recess to his managing editor, Hennessey, and ask him who wrote the article.

Editor Questions His Subordinate.

"I will ask him," said Wardman,
"but I don't believe he will tell me."
"Haven't you authority to compel him to tell you?" was asked.
"I could give him the choice between telling me and leaving the paper," replied Wardman, "but I shall not do that."

Wardman announced when recalled
in the afternoon that he had asked Hennessey for the name of the man who wrote the article, but did not get the information sought.

More Subpoenas Issued.

"When you asked Mr. Hennessey and he refused," Wardman was asked in the afternoon, "what did you say to him?"

"I told him that I hadn't for a moment imagined he would tell me," replied Wardman.

Confronted with this situation, the leaders hesitated, plainly at a loss what to do. Wardman was excused, but instructed to return next Monday night,
to which time the session is adjourned.
Meanwhile subpoenas were ordered to be served upon the managing and night editors of The Press. They were instructed furthermore to bring with them
the original manuscript of the article objected to.

Substance of His Information.

The article whose author or originator is desired declared that "bottle"
and "corruption" were being used to secure Justice Hooker's acquittal.
Wardman refused to tell whence came the information upon which the article was based, explaining that to do so would "violate the ethics of his profession," but he gave the substance of the information. "We were told," said he,
"that very strong pressure would be brought to exonerate Judge Hooker, particularly by a certain corporation." Questioned further he said that the corporation was the Delaware and Hudson company.

LAWSON GRILLS DEPEW

He Roasts the Senator to the Great Delight of His Audience—Presented with a Souvenir.

Albert Lea, Minn., July 15.—Between 4,000 and 5,000 people gathered from Albert Lea and the surrounding country to hear Thomas W. Lawson at the Chautauqua meeting. Lawson's address dealt with the United States Steel company and the leading life insurance interests, and did not materially differ from his other speeches.
He took occasion to grill Chauncey M.
Depew, to the great delight of the audience.

A souvenir was presented to Lawson
—a handsomely bound testimonial expressing the appreciation of the people of this city for Lawson's work, and bidding him Godspeed in his efforts.

Terrible Society Tragedy.

St. Louis, July 15.—Mrs. Frank Nel-haus, Jr., the wife of a prominent business man and a leader in the young social circle, is dead. According to a statement by her husband they had quarreled and he had prepared a dose of cyanide of potassium in her presence
for the purpose of committing suicide.
Before he could stop her she snatched
the poison and drank it herself.

Lake Seamen's Union Must Go.

Detroit, July 15.—The International Longshoremen, Marine and Transport Workers' association in annual session here adopted a resolution directing its delegates to the American Federation of Labor to demand the revocation of the A. F. of L. charter of the Lake Seamen's union.

NO FALSE CLAIMS

The proprietors of Foley's Honey and Taro do not advertise this as a "sar-cure for consumption." They do not claim it will cure this dread complaint
in advanced cases, but do positively assert that it will cure in the earlier stages and never fails to give comfort and relief in the worst cases. Foley's Honey and Tar is without doubt the greatest throat and lung remedy. Refuse substitutes. Rowland Bros.

All old-time cough syrups were designed to treat throat, lung and bronchial affections without due regard for the stomach and bowels, hence most of them produce constipation. Bee's, the original Laxative Honey and Tar, gently moves the bowels and cures all coughs, colds, croup, etc. Bee's Laxative Honey and Tar is the original Laxative Cough Syrup. Look for the letter B in red on every package.

BRONCHITIS FOR TWENTY YEARS.

Mrs. Minerva Smith, of Danville Ill., writes: "I had bronchitis for twenty years and never got relief until I used Foley's Honey and Tar which is a sure cure." Rowland

INDIGESTION CURED.

There is no case of indigestion, Dyspepsia or Stomach Trouble that will not yield to the digestive and strengthening influence of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure.
This remedy takes the strain off the stomach by digesting what you eat
and allowing it to rest until it grows strong again. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure affords quick and permanent relief
from indigestion and all troubles,
builds up the system and so purified
that disease can not attack and gain a foothold as when in a weakened condition. Sold by Rowland Bros.

The most wonderful cure for piles is Manzan, put up in collapsible tubes with nozzle attached. It reaches the spot, stops pain instantly, and cures all kinds of blind, bleeding, itching or protruding piles. Rowland Bros.

A SMOOTH ARTICLE.

When you find it necessary to use salve use DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve.
It is the purest and best for Sores,
Boils, Eczema, Blind, Bleeding, Itching or Protruding Piles. Get the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve.

Pineasine contains the antiseptic properties of the native pine, and is a sure cure for sunburn, heat, tetter, eczema and all other skin diseases.
Keals a sore, out or burn without a scar. Rowland Bros.

THREE GOOD AND JUST REAS- ONS.

There are good reasons why mothers prefer One Minute Cough Cure: First,
it is absolutely harmless; Second, it tastes good—children love it; Third,
it cures Coughs, Croup and Whooping

FATAL RAILWAY WRECK

Four Killed and Sixteen Injured Because a Switch on the C. and E. I.
Was Open.

Chicago, July 15.—Four men were killed and sixteen persons were injured, several of them perhaps fatally, when a north-bound St. Louis special train on the Chicago and Eastern railroad crashed into a southbound suburban train in front of the railroad station at Steger, Ill., shortly after 7 o'clock. An open switch is said to have caused the wreck.

The dead are: James Lyke, engineer on suburban train, Chicago; George Epstein, Chicago Heights, employed by Brownell Improvement company; Chas.
Horn, Crete, Ill.; George Abstein, Glenwood.

Among the injured the following cases are serious: John Miller, Chicago Heights, back broken; Ferdinand Heyn, Chicago, back, face and head injured; Dwight Wood, brakeman on suburban train, Chicago, left leg broken and side bruised; A. Gilmore, engineer on St. Louis special, Chicago, internal injuries; F. H. Ross, real estate dealer, Chicago, internal injuries.

TEXT FOR MISS TARBELL

John D. Rockefeller Speaks at the Weekly Prayer Meeting of His Church
at Cleveland.

Cleveland, July 15.—At the weekly
prayer meeting of the Euclid Avenue Baptist church John D. Rockefeller said that the Christian faith demands that every man must do according to that which he hath, or according to that with which he has been blest.
"There are two men who appear equally zealous in the cause of Christ," said Rockefeller, "but one is more effective than the other. The thing to do is to find out the secret of the effectiveness of the one."

"The beginning of the application of our Christianity must come now, tonight, tomorrow morning in our homes or in the office. However, humble we may be, whatever our place, it matters not, we can show the best side. We must show the most winsome and convincing side. In fact, we must show that we love God."

HE DREW THE BLACK BALL

Young German Writes That He Will Be Found Dead as the Result of That Fact.

Marquette, Wis., July 15.—That he drew the black ball in a duel by lot with a German army officer, and that he will be found dead as a result is the substance of a letter just received by a friend of Victor Von Task, of this city, who disappeared July 4. Von Task, who is a young man, was a bookkeeper at the Menominee (Mich.)
Electrical works, and said to be a former officer of the German army.

According to the letter signed by the missing man his death would result from a dispute of several years ago
when he was a German army officer.
The letter was written apparently at Green Bay. The drawing of the black ball meant that he had to kill himself
at or before a certain date.

Tyner's Body Finally Buried.

Washington, July 15.—After resting
in a vault at Oak Hill cemetery here
since his death last December the body of James N. Tyner, ex-postmaster general, assistant attorney general and representative in congress from Indiana, has been finally buried in the family lot at Oak Hill. The burial was private.

Deroulede Scorns a Pardon.

Paris, July 15.—Paul Deroulede, ex-member of the chamber of deputies who is in political exile in Spain for connection with a revolutionary conspiracy in 1899, refuses to accept pardon by presidential decree, saying he prefers to await full amnesty.

King and Kaiser Lunch Together.

Stockholm, July 15.—King Oscar gave a luncheon to Emperor William on board the Swedish royal yacht Prott. King Oscar and the crown prince returned to Stockholm later, and the Hohenzollern has left Gelle for the north.

Folk at a Chautauqua.

Ottawa, Kan., July 15.—Governor
Joseph W. Folk, of Missouri, spoke on "Law Enforcement" at the Chautauqua assembly here. Governor Folk was introduced by Governor E. W.
Hoch, of Kansas.

For the Benefit of the Promoters.

Boston, July 15.—James W. Smith and Henry W. Ogden, receivers of the Consolidated Uvero Plantation company, in their report filed in the United States circuit court, said that their investigations led them to believe that the company was not formed for the purpose of promoting legal business operations. It was a "stock and bond selling scheme for the benefit of the promoters," according to the report.

RACE ROW AT GOTHAM

Takes More Than 250 Policemen to Stop a Riot on "San Juan Hill."

WHITE MAN ATTACKS A NEGRO

That Begins It, and All Ages, Sexes
and Conditions Take a Hand—
Many Heads Broken.

New York, July 15.—"San Juan Hill," the district bounded by Amsterdam and West End avenues and Sixty-first and Sixty-third streets, so-called because of its notoriety as a battle ground,
was the scene of a furious race riot,
which required 300 policemen to quell,
after many shots had been fired, and several persons had been seriously injured. The trouble began shortly after 9 p. m., when a policeman arrested
Edward Connelly for attacking Henry Williams, a negro, and was pursued by the station house with his prisoner by a mob of Connelly's friends, throwing showers of stones and other missiles.

Streets Full of Fighting People.

When the station house reserves turned out the whole neighborhood was in an uproar, whites and blacks were engaged in desperate struggles in the streets. Torrents of missiles were thrown from roofs and windows. Within ten minutes not less than 1,000 men,
boys and women, black and white,
were engaged in a furious combat. The small party of police was powerless,
and reinforcements were summoned.
On their arrival they made repeated charges down the streets in a vain effort to restore order. They succeeded in making a few prisoners and were forced to retreat, fighting every inch of the way, and pursued to the station house by a howling mob.

Every Roof Rains Missiles.

The worst of the fighting was in Sixty-second street, where from every din-dow and from every roof rained missiles, while hundreds of shots were fired. Roundsman Patrick Walsh was knocked down by Joseph B. Smith, a negro, who after attempting to shoot him struck him repeatedly with the butt
of his revolver. Walsh was finally resued by his comrades. Inspector Mc-Laughlin arrived on the ground and sent for 250 more men in a hurry, and they came and the riots were finally quelled. During the fighting colored men pursued by whites took refuge on the street cars as they passed, and were followed by showers of bricks and stones as they fled. Every window in many cars was broken and passengers took shelter in neighboring houses. And the sum total in arrests made was five whites and six negroes.

DE WITTE FOR PEACE

Russia Needs Her Energies at Home—
But Linevitch Is To Be Reinforced Right Along.

St. Petersburg, July 15.—M. de Witte is shouldering the task of conducting peace negotiations in behalf of his country in a patriotic spirit, but with a full realization of the difficulties before him, but he is big enough to believe that the events of history will justify the wisdom of making peace on the best terms possible, as he considers that all the energies of the government should be directed to the solution of the internal problems of the empire.

Plans for the reinforcement of General Linevitch's armies are keeping pace with the preparations for peace negotiations. The nineteenth army corps has received marching orders
and the mobilization of six regiments of Cossacks has been successfully accomplished.

The salaries of the Russian peace plenipotentiaries have been fixed at $200 a day each, besides an allowance of $7,500 for traveling and other expenses.

Diabolical Negro Is Lynched.

Mobile, Ala., July 15.—Captain Doe, of the steamer Condor, which has arrived here from Celba, reports that the negro McGill, who murdered the crew and eight passengers of the British cattle steamer Olympia, of Honduras, has been lynched. When McGill was captured at El Provint he was placed aboard the Honduras warship Tatum-lar and sent back to Ullia island.
The natives planned to burn the prisoner, but later he was taken from the officials and hanged. The laws of the island forbid capital punishment.

Westinghouse Says It's a Lie.

New York, July 15.—George Westinghouse has issued a denial of a statement that the Westinghouse interests were going extensively into the operation of trolley lines in competition with some of the large railroad systems, and that it was their interests that induced John F. Wallace to resign as chief engineer of the Panama canal.

Charged with Stealing $240,000.

New York, July 15.—Henrico Cotti,
former cashier of the Edison company
at Milan, Italy, is under arrest, charged with having embezzled $240,000, which he lost in speculation, says a dispatch from that city to The Herald. It is probable there will be other arrests.
Shares of the Edison company fell on the bourse in consequence of the revelations.

Ah Sin Is Doing His Best.

Washington, July 15.—Mr. Rockhill,
the United States minister at Peking,
has called the state department that the Chinese government is vigorously opposing the threatened boycott of United States goods.

Furnace Heat Is Best and Cheapest

Furnace heat is best, cheapest and most healthful—and we honestly believe the Round Oak the best furnace ever made.

Everybody knows the famous Round Oak Stove—the most popular in the world. This furnace is made by the same people—and it's just as good.

There are all kinds of furnaces at all kinds of prices—but to save fuel—(important nowadays)—
the furnace must be air-tight and hold the fire.
Cheap furnaces don't do this—so they're really
the most expensive.

We furnish free a carefully prepared scientific plan for heating your home. Then we install a

A HARD HIT

Was made by us when we claimed to be the originators of low prices and yellow tag sales; the facts are we positively know about the price business, but it is possible we were in error about the tag deal, because looking backward is against our principles, but it really is amusing to hear the other fellow holler when he gets hit.

To be serious though, we had no thought of hurting anybody's feelings. We were just doing a little advertising on our own hook, not thinking about competition getting sore, our main thought was to induce people to buy during this, a naturally dull season of the year. How well we have succeeded can be ascertained by calling at our store and noting the constant throng of people buying goods, and to see our wagons on the go at all times, and we begin to believe that advertising helps, because we are sure that competition reads the ads at least.

And now, although we have been doing a phenomenal business we still have some furniture left, and although we will not state here that we will give it to you as a present, we will present you with the profits.

We expect you to call and see us because we will make it pay you to do so.

The System Lives On Good Rich Blood

People Who Lack the Proper Quantity and Quality of Blood Fall Victims to Every Disease That's Prevalent.

DR. A. W. CHASE'S NERVE PILLS.

The blood is the medium through which every tissue, every organ is supplied with the material it feeds upon and rebuilds itself with. Take away that nourishment by letting the blood run down in quantity and quality and you take away the power of an organ or tissue to resupply waste or rebuild itself. In other words the system starves; color, appetite, steadiness, energy, vigor, vitality—all are lost and a condition of mental and physical prostration sets in. This condition Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills positively cure by their power to manufacture good, rich, nutritious oxygen carrying blood, a blood that carries to every organ the very material it lives and thrives upon.

Mr. George Horkins of Westinghouse avenue, Wilmerding, Pa., says:

I began to use Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills in Pittsburgh. I was at the time badly run down, weak—nervous—could not eat—cold all the time, as my blood was thin, and did not sleep well. The medicine put me in splendid shape rapidly and easily giving me steady nerves—a fine appetite—restful sleep—a general feeling of energy and vigor and good rich blood that showed in the way my color came back. The medicine is certainly a grand one and I am only too glad to say so. 50 cents a box at dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Company, Buffalo, N. Y. Portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., on every package.

HAY FEVER ABOLISHED

Medical Science Discovers a Cure for This Malady by Breathing Hyomei.

Stomach dosing cannot cure hay fever. A change of climate is the only treatment that gives any relief, and Hyomei, which medicates the air you breathe, acts upon this principle, giving in your own home a climate as healthy as that of the White Mountains or other health resorts.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1. extra bottles, 50 cents. Rowland Bros. have seen the good effects following the use of Hyomei in so many cases of hay fever that they are willing to sell the treatment with the understanding that if it does not give satisfaction, the money will be refunded to you.

THE TOMBSTONE CENSOR.

He Sees That No Unseemly Inscription mars the Cemetery.

A tombstone censor is employed by most large cemeteries. It is the duty of this man to see that nothing unseemly in the way of a tombstone is put up.

A young engineer in a Norristown mill was killed by the explosion of a boiler, and the family of this young man, believing that the mill owners had known all along that the boiler was defective, actually had carved on the tombstone the sentence, "Murdered by his masters." The tombstone censor, of course, refused to sanction such an epitaph.

On the death of a certain noted prize fighter the surviving brother of the man wanted to put in a glass case beside the grave a championship belt, four medals, a pair of gloves and other trophies of the ring. But the censor's negative was firm.

A widow who believed that the physician was responsible for her husband's death wished to put on the tomb, "He employed a cheap doctor," but the tombstone censor showed her that such an inscription would lay her open to heavy damages for libel.

Atheists sometimes direct in their wills that shocking blasphemies be carved on their monuments. The censor, however, sees to it that these blasphemies do not disgrace the cemetery. —Philadelphia Bulletin.

A Minister's Woeing.

The Rev. John Brown of Haddington, the author of the "Self Interpreting Bible," was a man of singular bashfulness. His courtship lasted seven years. Six and a half years had passed away, and the reverend gentleman had got no further than he had been in the first six days. A step in advance must be made, and Mr. Brown summoned all his courage for the deed. "Janet," said he one day as they sat in solemn silence, "we've been acquainted now six years and more, and I've never gotten a kiss yet. D'ye think I might take one, my bonnie lass?" "Just as you like, John; only be becoming and proper w' it." "Surely, Janet; we'll ask a blessing." The blessing was asked, the kiss was taken, and the worthy divine, overpowered with the blissful sensation, rapturously exclaimed: "Heigh, lass, but it is gude! We'll return thanks!" Six months later the pious couple were made one flesh.
